

JANE

OCTOBER '02

Soluna 6 Number 8

BEDUTY CENTRAL

Secret agent narcissist

If you're always covertly checkin' yourself out in car doors, butter knives, CD cases, etc., try these new products that incorporate hidden mirrors into the packaging (pictured, clockwise from top right): Cat Cosmetics Kitten Impossible lipstick, $17, American Eagle Outfitters Fruit Scented Sliding Lip Gloss, $5, Guerlain Divinora lipstick, $22, and BeneFit Glamourette set, $38. They all lower the fully humiliating risk of getting busted. Or if you're not one of the above and are really sick of your vain friends, prank them by putting a "real mirror" in your bathroom. Instead of reversing the image like regular mirrors do, it reflects the way others see you (www.truemirror.com). It'll totally freak them out by throwing the physical self-image they've spent years developing completely off-kilter. That's so deep. —Erin Flaherty

